Z A N Z I B A R

White beaches with sand that seems talcum powder, crystalline sea and seabed with corals and colourful fishes, palm trees, lush forests and exotic animals, this is Zanzibar, one of the unspoiled paradises in the world.

Zanzibar archipelago is part of the United Republic of Tanzania and its main island is Unguja. The capital is Stone Town, recognized by UNESCO World Heritage Site, is a mixture of different ethnic groups and cultures where Swahili is dominant.

The climate is tropical monsoonal and has a high percentage of humidity. Normally the season of "Big Rains" begins in late March and lasts until the beginning of June. While the "Small Rains" is between November and December and can last until January. The dry season covers the months from December to February and from June to October.

CLIMATE

DOCUMENTS AND VISAS

You need a passport valid for at least six months from the date of departure and at least two free pages for the stamps. To enter the island, you must be in possession of an entry visa, obtainable at the Zanzibar airport at a cost of $ 50.

VACCINATIONS

Obligatory vaccination is not required

LANGUAGE

The local language is Kiswahili, but English is also widespread

CURRENCY

The local currency is the Tanzanian Shilling (TZS), but Dollars (USD) printed after 2003 are also used.

ELECTRICITY

The current is 230 V and 50 Hz. The sockets have three holes as in the UK and we recommend an adapter with flat slats, as the English type.

ZANZIBAR

White beaches with sand that seems to talcum powder, crystalline sea and seabed with corals and colorful fish, palm trees, lush forests and exotic animals, this is Zanzibar, one of the still unspoiled paradises in the world. The United Republic of Tanzania includes Zanzibar whose main island Unguja, better known as Zanzibar, is the largest. Other islands and islets of varying sizes that surround it (Pemba is the second in terms of extension) complete the Archipelago. The capital of Zanzibar is Stone Town, whose old town is full of architecture and history. UNESCO World Heritage Site, Stone Town is a mixture of different races and cultures among which dominates the Swahili culture. There are numerous small islands (about forty) considered as one of the most popular destinations for excursions by boat and for a swim with dolphins, for snorkelling or just lying under the African sun as Mnemba, Mafia and Tumbatu. Unguja is the largest island of the east coast and the Pemba channel separates it from the African continent. The island is mostly at and above the sea level but in the central-western part there are some small hills that reach a maximum altitude of 123 m. The Indian Ocean is subject to the natural phenomenon of the tides and offers a fascinating scene when, twice a day, it withdraws for several hundred meters. During low tide you can admire the original strips of sand called sand-bank, and it is also possible to reach the reef.

ACTIVITIES & SERVICES

GASTRONOMY

Our cuisine reflects our passion for food. Using only products available on the local market and respecting the seasons. The fishermen of the village of Matemwe provide the freshest fish that you can expect for. The kitchen brigade is able to mix the flavors of the island and offering every day succulent and colorful dishes with the island spices, which animate the local and Swahili cuisine; at the same time, the palates not accustomed to exotic tastes and more inclined towards Mediterranean flavors, will be able to taste recipes based on meat, fish, and exquisite vegetables, revisited in a more international key. To complete the culinary offer, vegetarian dishes are always available in the buffet.
